

REFRACTIVE VISION CORRECTION OPTIONS

Selecting the vision correction procedure that's right for you is an important one. See how the different options compare and ask your eye care professional about the details.

VISION ICL

LASIK

PRK

Vision Quality

	Sharp, Clear vision	Yes ¹	Yes	Yes
--	---------------------	------------------	-----	-----

Patient Experience

	Outpatient procedure	Yes	Yes	Yes
	20-30 minute procedure	Yes	Yes	Yes
	Contributes to dry eye syndrome	No, does not induce dry eye syndrome ²	Occasional ³	Occasional ⁴
	Long term history	Yes	Yes	Yes

Safety Features

	Removable or reversible	Yes, Removable	No, Not Reversible	No, Not Reversible
	Biocompatible lens	Yes	NA, Laser based	NA, Laser based
	UV protection	Yes	No	No

Patient Types

	Nearsightedness	Moderate to severe	Mild to moderate	Mild to moderate
	Farsightedness	No	Yes	Yes
	Astigmatism	No	Yes	Yes
	Thin corneas	Yes ⁵	Limited	Limited

References

- Sanders D, Vukich JA. Comparison of implantable collamer lens (ICL) and laser-assisted in situ keratomileusis (LASIK) for Low Myopia. Cornea. 2006 Dec; 25(10):1139-46.
- Naves, J.S. Carracedo, G. Cacho-Babillo, I. Diadenosine Nucleotid Measurements as Dry-Eye Score in Patients After LASIK and ICL Surgery. Presented at American Society of Cataract and Refractive Surgery (ASCRS) 2012.
- Shoja, MR, Besharati, MR. Dry eye after LASIK for myopia: Incidence and risk factors. European Journal of Ophthalmology. 2007; 17(1): pp. 1-6.

- Lee, Jae Bum et al. Comparison of tear secretion and tear film instability after photorefractive keratectomy and laser in situ keratomileusis. Journal of Cataract & Refractive Surgery, Volume 26, Issue 9, 1326 - 1331.
- Parkhurst, G, Psolka, M, Kezirian, G, Phakic intraocular lens implantation in United States military warfighters: A retrospective analysis of early clinical outcomes of the Visian ICL. J Refract Surg. 2011;27(7):473-481.

Important Safety Information for the Visian ICL

ATTENTION: Reference the Visian ICL Product Information for a complete listing of indications, warnings and precautions.

www.staar.com

©2016 STAAR Surgical Company, Inc.
10-0004-35 B

STAAR® Surgical Company
11911 Walker Ave.
Monrovia, CA 91016
(800) 352-7842